

BOLOGNA – PEPOLI PALACE

DESCRIPTION

From a distribution point of view, the project development consisted in structuring the new rooms destined for temporary exhibitions and to bond them organically into an easy to use museum route.

Inside the iron tower, the rooms destined to hold the temporary exhibitions and the other initiatives foreseen by the scientific project have been placed on five levels. The stairs and lift that access the museum route of Pepoli Palace, which will be restored and cleaned of all the additions that have followed over the years, are on the outside.
